

“We are thrilled to have Jessa on board with PTA. Her experience in collegiate athletics and her Pelvic Health specialty will give her a unique perspective to treat area athletes as well as pelvic health issues.” — Chris Leck, CEO

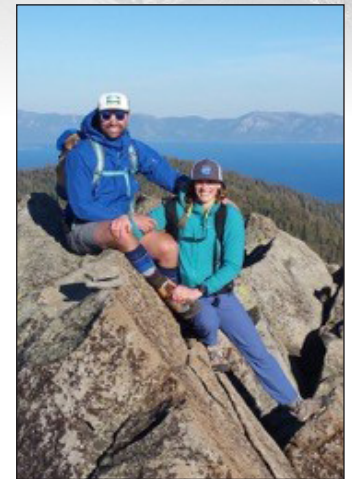

Jessa Brooks PT, DPT

University of Montana, School of Physical Therapy and Rehabilitative Science 2018

PTA Physical Therapy is proud to announce that Jessa Brooks has joined the Whitefish Clinic. Jessa is a native of Seeley Lake and completed her undergraduate degree from the University of Montana while playing basketball for the Lady Griz. She returned to UM and earned her Doctor of Physical Therapy in 2018. While in PT school, Jessa focused on a return to sports therapy and research, working closely with the UM Athletic Training Department and the strength and conditioning coaches to optimize player performance post injury and for injury prevention. Jessa is also specializing in Pelvic Health physical therapy, and is taking advanced training courses in October, to further her skills.

Jessa loves exploring the great outdoors with her husband and chocolate lab and enjoys skiing Big Mountain, mountain biking the Whitefish trails and fishing the creeks of the Swan Valley.

To schedule an appointment with Jessa, contact our Whitefish clinic at 406-862-5033 or fax in your referral to 406-862-4933.
